Program Overview

The Association of Pediatric Hematology/Oncology Nurses (APHON) is dedicated to promoting excellence in the care of children, adolescents, and young adults with cancer and other hematologic disorders, as well as supporting their families. APHON's activities aimed at improving the quality of nursing care for this population include defining practice standards, developing premier publications, and offering state-of-the-art conferences.

Safe and consistent administration of chemotherapy and biotherapy is a fundamental component of the care provided by pediatric oncology nurses. To promote uniformity in the practice of chemotherapy and biotherapy administration, APHON developed the Pediatric Chemotherapy and Biotherapy Provider Program.

The objectives of the program are:

- To establish education and practice standards for the administration of chemotherapy and biotherapy to children, adolescents, and young adults.
- To promote consistent practices in the administration, safe handling, and monitoring of side effects of chemotherapy and biotherapy for pediatric and adolescent and young adult (AYA) oncology patients.

This guide will provide renewing providers with the necessary information to purchase and complete their Provider Renewal Exam to maintain their Provider Status with APHON.

More information about the APHON Chemo/Bio Provider Renewal Program can be found on the APHON website here.

Renewal Exam FAQs

My status goes through December 31st, 2026, why do I have to renew by December 15th?

APHON requires all renewing providers to complete their Renewal Exam by December 15th to ensure there is proper processing time for all exams prior to when statuses expire. APHON's offices are also closed December 22nd, 2026 through January 1st, 2027 and we are unable to provide customer service during that time.

When will I need to renew again?

Successful completion and passing of the Renewal Exam refreshes your Provider Status with APHON for (2) two calendar years.

Please be aware that, although APHON makes efforts to notify providers of their expiring status, it remains the responsibility of providers to maintain and renew their status promptly. Keeping your information up-to-date and regularly reviewing your provider card is the most effective way to prevent your status from lapsing. Additionally, we strongly recommend storing a copy of your NCPD certificates and provider card on a hard drive or a cloud-based storage system. Individual providers are responsible for the maintenance and storage of NCPD documentation and completion records.
